DISABILITY, INTERSECTIONALITY, AND STATE VIOLENCE

Date: April 26th, 2018 Time: 11am-7pm Location: Atkinson Hall, CALIT2 Qualcomm Institute, UC San Diego Directions and Parking: http://tds.ucsd.edu

FREE & open to the public. Wheelchair accessible. CART/realtime captioning will be provided for presentations For general information or to request an accommodation, contact: Jennifer via phone: (858) 534-0234 or email: tds@ucsd.edu by April 16.

Join the conversation

The sites, practices, and mechanisms most commonly associated with state violence provide a powerful lens for analyzing intersectionality across identities marked by ability, race, ethnicity, gender, class, age and other groups who experience heightened levels of vulnerability. This one-day symposium features presentations and performances by artists, scholars, community advocates and representatives of social service organizations to foster dialog around concerns with forms of vulnerability to violence that are generated, under-addressed or ignored by state institutions. Presenters will address the ways in which the conditions of schooling, psychiatric and other healthcare, policing, and incarceration, raise heightened concerns for the human rights of people at the intersection of minoritized identities and disability.

Event Schedule:

11 - 11:45 am: Tabling and Light Refreshments

- 11:45 am: Symposium Introduction
- 12 1:20 pm: Session 1, Presentations

Anna Mollow, "Unvictimizable: Fatphobia and Ableism as Weapons of Antiblack Violence" Mollow is a scholar of Disability Studies and Fat Studies, and co-editor with McRuer of the volume Sex and Disability.

Dustin Gibson "The Space In-between Carceral Violence and Freedom" Gibson is a Community Builder, Co-Founder of Disability Advocates for Rights and Transition

1:30 – 2:50 pm: Session 2, Presentations

Nirmala Erevelles "Scenes of Subjection": Disability at the Intersections of Race, Gender, and Class in the Carceral State"

Erivelles is Professor of Social and Cultural Studies in Education at the University of Alabama

Khalid Alexander, "I Can't Breathe: How the Ballot Box Was Used to Choke Black America" Alexander is founder and president of Pillars of the Community, a grassroots organization dedicated to advocating for those impacted by the criminal justice system.

3 – 3:30 pm: Tabling and Refreshments

3:30-4:45 pm: Session 3, Roundtable Discussion

A participatory conversation with symposium presenters Nirmala Erevelles, Anna Mollow, Dustin Gibson, Khalid Alexander, Jayda Rasberry, Leroy Moore, and respondents.

5 – 6:30 pm: Session 4, Presentations

Leroy Moore: Keynote performance "Being Black and Disabled Under a Police State: Slavery to Jim Crow to Ugly Laws to Surveillance"

Moore is a poet, performance artist, activist. He is a founding member of National Black Disability Coalition, co-founder of the Oakland based theater group Sins Invalid (http://www.sinsinvalid.org/mission.html) and a leader of the Krip Hop movement.

Jayda Rasberry, "Resilience in the Face of State-Sanctioned Violence"

Rasberry is Deputy Director of External Relations at Dignity and Power Now, a Los Angeles based grassroots organization founded in 2012 that fights for the dignity and power of all incarcerated people, their families, and communities.

6 - 6:30 pm: Closing Discussions, Debriefing and Check in

Cosponsorship:

Organized by the UCSD Transdisciplinary Disability Studies Research Group.

Cosponsors include: the UC Consortium of Black Studies in California; the Institute of Arts and Humanities; Chicano/a - Latino/a Arts and Humanities Program; the Department of Communication; the Department of Ethnic Studies; the Department of Literature; Critical Gender Studies; the South Asian Initiative; Third World Studies; the African and African American Research Center; S.P.A.C.E.S.; the UCSD Black Studies Project; the International Institute; the Social Science Division; the Graduate Students Association; the Disability Student Alliance; the University of San Diego Department of Learning and Teaching; and Qualcomm Institute of Calit2.

Sponsored in part by the Office of the Vice Chancellor for Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion. Any views or opinions expressed in this program are solely those of the speakers and/or organizers and do not necessarily represent those of the Office.